Project Management and Strategic Human Resources Expert

PROFILE

Miranda is an MSP-qualified strategic statutory partnership and programme management specialist with a successful twenty-year track record in managing programmes and people, delivering positive outcomes in a range of multi-disciplinary settings (private, voluntary, and local and central government sectors) for a range of complex projects and programmes across the country.

As a Chartered HR professional, Miranda has an in-depth understanding of people management from a wider strategic and operational perspective. This has enabled cohesive partnership working, ensuring there are the right resources, both financial and human, in place to deliver the necessary requirements for the communities and clients she operates for.

As the Programme Manager on the Chilmington development for Ashford Borough Council, Miranda utilised her working experience of managing multi-partner complex projects and programmes to develop and embed a revised governance structure at all levels, from the community to the strategic board, including developer buy-in.

Within her project management role for Fareham Borough Council, Miranda supported the formal procurement process for the selection of a JV partner through each stage to deliver the 6,000 Welborne Garden Community. Miranda's role included developing the design and draft of key documents, including the Public Information Notice presentation, the Memorandum of Information for prospective bidders, and the Outcome Specification.

At TJA Associates, Miranda is the programme manager, delivering a range of multi-faceted projects contributing to the National Police Roads Safety Review, taking responsibility for the governance and programme management road safety programme of activity to reduce the number of those killed and seriously injured on the strategic road network.

In 2019, Miranda was part of a Regen Co Team working with Homes England to produce a stewardship toolkit for Homes England's own large-scale sites.

Miranda is a keen runner who's always out in the New Forest exploring the outdoors. Her passions are people and community. As the Chair of Governors of a local Junior school, Miranda advocates for all within this community and is the safeguarding and inclusions lead.
